

Freely Economy

Economy for free and Correspondence (first consideration 2016-11-1)

By Fernando Mancebo Rodriguez.

Now a day most economists, politic leaders, inclusive any unwary monarch say us that “the welfare state” is a good of the past that will be not possible in the future.

Although, any critic people could be astonished, confused and very sad with these affirmations:

How this could be true, if now and in the future the technology, personal knowledge and technic of individuals, robotic, continuous investigations, etc. will be bigger each time?

Later on of thinking deeply the response arises us:

The mind of those economists, politic leaders (and other) perhaps think and see through the current capitalist economy only, but not through of an authentic social and human economy.

Say, the current economy consists on:

- The capitalist class, which manages the production and directions total of the economy,
- The working class, which makes the production, being at the order and direction of the capitalist class.
- The states that treat the redistributing and help towards the neediest ones, but never get its finality.

Nevertheless, in this state of the question, the technology, robotic, etc., aren't goods for the immense majority of the human individuals, because day after day people are replace by machines and robots, leaving each time more and more people in the indigence, abandonment and misery, and where the states are unable of giving the help enough.

In the other hand, the states are subjected, bought and subjugated by the capitalist class.

Then here, what will be the solution?

Logically the capitalist class is so introduced in the avarice of the money that is unable to measure its live in other parameter different from the quantity of money in the bank.

For that I have many doubts on the capacity of the capitalist class, together to the capacity of states, for they can be able of resolving this problematic without passing for many great social confrontations, wars, revolutions, etc., before of getting new forms of world economy.

But theorizing, what would be these new forms of world economy?

Perhaps many, but let point here a simple one that I believe will be good for eliminating many of the flaws of the current economy, as the following ones and many other that can be seen with simple revision.

The Economy for free and Correspondence

This form of economy has two basic but very simple principles:

- 1.- Goods totally gratis, where money doesn't exist and anybody can obtain all he needs in any moment and place.
- 2.- Correspondence, where each person has a level of spending depending on its contribution to the society. This case, any person has its own spending card that will be mark the level of monthly spending, the one that will have the capacity of saving and credit previously settle down, for avoiding circumstantial economic problems.

The Correspondence consists on each person offers his contribution of works and professional labors, obtaining with it social rights and a spending card with its corresponding spending level.

This class of economy avoids multiple types of problems, producing contrarily many types of advantages, as for example:

All the ones due to the use of money:

Stole of money; use of money for mafias and development of these mafias; drugs;

With this economy, all people are consumers with a minimum but acceptable level of spending.

The level of spending by a community will be correctly adapted to the ecologic, social, cultural, etc. necessities.

This economy tends to the full employment for a double reason: any person need of being employed for this way obtain more spending level, and any company needs to have the sufficient number of employees (which are gratuity) to be the best and more required in its field of action.

Of course, the level of spending of each individual must to be considered as for the contribution of this individual to the society, given important level of spending the great contributors as can be great enterprisers, businessmen, scientists, politicians, doctors, etc.

Thus, the difference of level of spending must to be important for this way people have always interest for improving continually.

In this economy, states and community must to be always attentive the good evolution and diversification of the production, improvement of products, creation of new companies, etc., being in last instance the needs of people what determines the production and evolution of the economy.

With object of adjustment of the spending levels, all the objects and consumer goods should have marked valuation or spending price.

In the same way, and when not having money, for the balance of payments between countries it will be good to use the interchange of consumer goods to pay the acquired debts.

In this economy the final owner of companies are the society that contribute with all the necessary for its construction and maintenance, and also will be the experts of the society who decides and execute its dismantling when the company in question stops to be productive and necessary.
